

Data Sharing

Protecting Data Anywhere All The Time

Challenge

- Customers need to access and use sensitive data in a controlled and secure way
- Resources are constrained and creating a custom data-sharing platform is not viable
- Additional user load on production systems would be detrimental

Solution

- Sotero is used to move production data into a protected data warehouse or reporting environment
- Customers are added to appropriate access roles
- Customers' access privileges are defined for their roles
- Customers allowed secure access to data

Benefits

- Rapid onboarding with Sotero in the cloud - up in weeks rather than months
- Customers and organization do not need to install clients or agents
- Replication of existing schema and data eliminates the need for development efforts
- Sotero quickly integrates with existing infrastructure without additional development effort
- Governance capabilities are built into Sotero allowing easy tracking of user data usage and creating an audit trail of continuous compliance
- Eliminates risk and liability from customers directly accessing production data
- Production systems are entirely unaltered and operations are not impacted by the additional external load
